Most of the striking students of the officer candidate school at Nam Dinh returned there on 10 February 1952. Leaders of the group spoke with Governor Tam and President Huu in Hanoi. Tam did not act, but Huu agreed to investigate the charges of the petition. He also promised that there would be no reprisals if the students returned. Two of the student spokesmen agreed to return to camp and await the outcome of Huu's promise of an investigation; but they asserted that they could not be responsible for the action of the other strikers.
